

LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES MAJOR

The Latin American Studies Major, part of the International & Area Studies IDP, allows students to analyze the area (or a subregion, e.g., South America, Central America, Southern Cone, Amazonia, or the Caribbean) from an interdisciplinary and modern perspective. The major seeks to ground students in broad international issues which they can then use to focus on particular concerns of that part of the world.

Preparation for the Major: 6 courses, plus language requirement

Admission to the Major: UCLA students must apply to the Latin American Studies major. The application period is the end of the Fall Quarter of the Junior Year. By the end of that term, students must have completed all preparation courses* with a minimum UC GPA in these courses of 2.00. Admission to the Latin American Studies major is on a competitive basis, using the preparation requirements as a minimum standard for consideration. Note that meeting minimum qualifications does not guarantee admission to the Latin American Studies major.

*Completion of the elementary year of one of the two foreign languages is acceptable when applying for the major. Completion of the intermediate year of both foreign languages is required to fulfill all preparation requirements, but can be done after being accepted to the major. The minimum prep GPA of 2.00 will still need to be met with the inclusion of these courses.
